Information for Master Applicants

Bielefeld University of Applied Sciences

FH Bielefeld works closely with industrial communities and businesses in the region, with regards both to teaching and applied research. FH Bielefeld has over 150 partnerships worldwide and is constantly expanding its international collaborations. Its 11,000 students are enrolled in over 60 degree courses across three campuses in Bielefeld, Gütersloh and Minden. With a choice of different study models, many degree courses are offered in cooperation with local companies. There are six faculties: Design, Minden Campus (Architecture, Engineering, Informatics), Engineering and Mathematics, Social Sciences, Business, and Health.

Academic Calendar

	Semester dates	Lecture Period
Winter semester 2021/2022	September 1, 2021 – February 28, 2022	September 20, 2021 – February 4, 2022
Summer semester 2022	March 1, 2022 – August 31, 2022	March 21, 2022 – July 15, 2022

Note for tuition-free programs: While the programs do not charge tuition, a mandatory fee of approximately 300€ per semester covers student services and public transportation for Bielefeld and North Rhine-Westphalia.

Application

Please check the application deadline and requirements of the program of your choice. If you earned your degree in a country other than Germany and wish to apply to a master's program, you are required to submit your application to Bielefeld University of Applied Sciences via UniAssist, a German university application service for international students. Bielefeld University of Applied Sciences will only accept applications provided with the uni-assist.de online form.

Language Requirements

For all programs German language proficiency must be proven at the time of application. This proof needs to be delivered by handing in an official language certificate unless you are a native speaker or have graduated from a German-speaking program. Accepted certificates are, among others, the Goethe-Zertifikat, the TestDaF and the Deutsche Sprachdiplom der Kultusministerkonferenz.
